They came in a lumber wagon apart at the ferries. The ferryman complained of the heft of the large chest that contained the provisions and a tier of silver dollars, seven deep, quilted in a cloth, and a false bottom on top of them. They bought lot no. 15 in the 2nd Concession of the Military Tract, containing 200, from Armstrong, for $1000, and paid down for it all in silver dollars. (He lived next farm east). There was only three acres chopped on it, and a trace of a road across it. (One of the first settlers, John Gerwilliger, told me his wagon was the first one that went from Picton over this road to Wellington). They built on this farm a frame house and clapboarded it. They sold half of the wagon to

Armstrong and used it in partnerships (the hubs were made of locust wood). It was afterwards pressed by the soldiers and taken to Toronto in the War of 1813.

The farm is very nice soil and remained in the family about forty years. William while on the farm built on the north side of the road about 30 rods of close board fence 4 ft. high and sawed notches in the top, which remained there until the fall of 1896 (about 45 years), then removed by the owner of the north part of the farm, Manly Garwood, and replaced by rails.
